President Making 'Excellent' Progress, White House Says

Why Heart Attack? Press Secretary Fails to Explain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Why President Eisenhower's illness was reported first as another "heart attack":

The White House medical bulletin said he had suffered an "occlusion of a small branch of the middle cerebral artery on the left side."

Newsmen asked White House Associate Press Secretary Mrs. Anne Wheaton, when she issued the bulletin Tuesday what it meant. She replied:

"That is a form of heart attack, as you understand it, the heart—medical language."

In answer to further questions she repeated "form of heart attack."

In the half-hour after the news had been relayed to the world, Mrs. Wheaton — who had talked again with the President's doctors — held several impromptu news conferences. Twice she said: "The heart has nothing to do with it."

But she did not explain why she originally called it a form of heart attack.

Permitted to Resume Some Official Duties

Hagerty Reports Ike Still Has Slight Speech Impairment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower made such "excellent" progress today toward recovery from his cerebral attack that his doctors let him resume a few presidential duties.

A brief medical bulletin at 11:53 a. m. c. s. t., the fourth since the President became ill Monday afternoon, said that "His progress to date has been excellent."

White House Secretary James C. Hagerty supplemented this with the observation that, though the President still suffers a slight speech impairment, he is "improving greatly."

The President's doctors have said he must rest for "several weeks" as a result of Monday's attack, diagnosed as "an occlusion of a small branch of a cerebral vessel which has produced a slight difficulty in speaking."

His Day's Activities

But today the President: —Conferred with Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams for about 15 minutes.

—Signed his name 12 times to official documents, initiated another and discussed "White House business" with Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, the White House staff secretary.

—Did some oil painting, chatted with Mrs. Eisenhower, and called in his brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University, for lunch.

Hagerty said the President still has a trace of the speech difficulty which first tipped doctors off to his ailment. The press secretary said Eisenhower was having difficulty pronouncing certain words and found it "amusing."

As the President began slowly to increase the activities halted by Monday's attack, there were these developments:

—Hagerty said there has been no discussion "with anyone" about delegating the President's powers to Nixon. Hagerty just laughed at reports published in London that Eisenhower would resign.

—The United States left it up to other NATO countries whether to go ahead with the Dec. 16 summit meeting in Paris with Nixon sitting in for Eisenhower. Netherlands Foreign Minister Joseph M. Luns said here that he and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles believe this should be done.

—The stock market rebounded from Tuesday's selling wave when the value of securities plummeted some five billion dollars.

Firemen Make Run to Farm Blaze
The Harrisburg city fire department yesterday afternoon nipped what could have been a bad blaze on the farm of Roy Lane, Harrisburg RFD 3.

Fire Chief L. G. Martin said the department made the run to the farm, which is a mile and a half southeast of Pearson school, at 1:15 p. m.

A daughter was at home at the time and saw a wooden building where turkeys are dressed afire. She called the fire department.

Chief Martin said that the fire was confined to a charred wall and attic, that $300 worth of dressed turkeys inside the building were not damaged.

Fire started from a kerosene stove in the building, Martin said.

Widespread Belief Eisenhower Will Resign If Unable to Fulfill Duties

WASHINGTON (AP) —There was widespread speculation today that President Eisenhower might consider resigning his job to Vice President Richard M. Nixon if he feels he can no longer perform his duties adequately.

As a result of the President's third alarming illness in 26 months there already have been some suggestions that he retire.

Rep. Paul C. Jones (D-Mo.) said he thought the President should step down but only if "he finds he is not in a position to exercise his full faculties."

Nixon himself rejected suggestions that the President resign, saying "There is no reason for the President to step aside." He expressed confidence in the President's ultimate recovery and said the chief executive is capable right now of making necessary major decisions.

Not just the United States but the world was concerned, Two London newspapers said the President's illness indicated he will resign. Another London paper said a decision "cannot be delayed for long."

Reporters asked White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty for his reaction to the London reports. He replied:

"Just say I laughed and that I did not have any reaction."

Roscoe Drummond, veteran political analyst of the New York Herald Tribune, said flatly that the President is prepared to withdraw from office if he finds his latest illness has impaired his ability to do his job.

"Those who know Mr. Eisenhower's thinking on the subject of his health are certain," Drummond said in today's Herald Tribune, "that he will not permit, at this critical juncture of affairs, the kind of vacuum in the presidency which prevailed for several months after his heart attack in September, 1955."

The President himself has spoken on the subject of disability. He did so at a news conference March 7, 1956, at which he discussed his decision to ask a second term.

"When I feel that I can't carry on, I won't be there," he said.

Mr. Parish is the first person to announce his candidacy for office. He said he is in the process of having his petitions circulated at present.

City Clerk Olive Patterson announced that the dates for filing petitions for commissioner are Nov. 25 through Dec. 10.

16-Year-Old Boy Admits Setting Series Of Fires Causing $700,000 Damage
The fire officials then questioned the boy about other recent fires in Springfield where arson was suspected.

He admitted starting a blaze on Nov. 12, 1956, which destroyed the First Congregational Church here at a loss of $300,000.

The youth also admitted setting a fire on Nov. 15 this year which caused $325,000 damage to the Burton Reid Jewelry Co.

He also admitted starting fires in two junkyards, a home, a television repair shop and an office building.

A delinquency petition was filed against the youth and he will be given a mental examination. He has been living in a foster home for the past three months as a ward of the court.

Driver Gambles, Four Are Killed

NILES, Ill. (AP) —Four persons were killed Monday night, one by flying debris, when an impatient motorist apparently gambled for a few seconds at a railroad crossing.

Witnesses said his car had made a left turn and shot onto the tracks from the wrong side of the street seconds before a Milwaukee Road passenger train reached the crossing. Traffic on the right side of the street was stopped by a lowered barrier.

Killed in the car were Floyd Burk, 28, Fred Piper, 39, and Miss Wilma Kelly, all employees at the Warwick Manufacturing Co. in this Chicago suburb. Mrs. Elsie Raffel, 49, the mother of three, was killed when bits of the flying wreckage cut her down at a nearby bus stop.

Two other passengers in the car were seriously injured. Bennie Robbins, 28, was taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston, and William Usleton, 22, was taken to Resurrection hospital.

About Town County Court Term Ends; Jury Is Dismissed

By TIMOTHEUS T.

OUR TIMES: Of Timotheus is one of these guys who never sees anything fantastic. People tell of seeing things, even point to them, out they're gone before I see anything.

Once, several years ago, I thought I saw a flying saucer. It was a shining disc going through the air, it looked like.

But it turned out to be a tin hat a man on a tractor was wearing. He was on the other side of a ridge pulling a plow, his hat gleaming in the sun, and all I could see was the hat moving along.

I had heard that last night some time between six and seven o'clock you could see Sputnik. So at 5 p. m. I went outside and kept my eyes heavenward. Even if you don't see any Sputniks, it's really interesting to go out and look up at our celestial bodies.

But at 5:43-44 I spotted what looked like a moving star over in the northwest. It was well on its way from the horizon, but was moving at a decided clip. When it was going over my elm tree in the northwest corner of my yard, it appeared to almost brush elbows with a star that didn't have the impetus to get out of the way.

It was visible for about 25-35 seconds from the time I saw it until it disappeared in some clouds to the southeast. I was too busy looking to do any timing.

TOM GRAM, Harrisburg policeman, was telling me about an unusual sight he and Mrs. Gram saw the previous evening. It was getting dark when they were driving home from Carmi and when they rounded the Little Egypt curve southeast of Eldorado they reported they saw a strange red object in the sky. They saw it no more, Mr. Gram said, until they came into Harrisburg and saw it to the west as they were driving on Poplar.

Rosiclar Woman Dies

Mrs. Anna Manhart, 68, wife of Edgar Manhart, Rosiclar, died in the Hardin County General hospital at 7 p. m. Tuesday. The body is in the care of the Hosick funeral home and funeral plans have not been completed.

Mrs. Alex Masiokas, Former Resident, Dies at Danville

The funeral of Mrs. Antonio Masiokas, 71, who operated a dry goods store in the location that now houses WSL television station in Harrisburg, was held Saturday in St. Patrick's Catholic church in Danville. Her husband, Alex, died in 1950. Mr. and Mrs. Masiokas had owned the building and owned and operated the Harrisburg Dry Goods Co. until they moved to Danville 15 years ago.

Born Nov. 25, 1885, in Lithuania, she was the daughter of Justin and Anna Wikswo Silunas. She came to the United States in 1904.

She is survived by her only daughter, Mrs. Forrest G. (Frances) Strawser, Danville; four brothers, Tony Silunas, Danville, Peter Silunas, Chicago, and Frank Silunas and Paul Silunas living in Lithuania; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Maulis and Mrs. Kazimera Vaitekunas, both of whom reside in Europe.

Rosary was said Friday in the Barrick and Sons funeral home in Danville. Rev. Paul Kinder officiated at the funeral and burial was in the Greenwood cemetery.

Dinner Speaker Tells Problems, Gives Advice to Older Citizens
The problems of the older citizens to this nation, the various states and local communities were the subject of an authoritative address to members of the Southern Illinois Dinner club Tuesday night by Mrs. Paul Whitney, a social worker, author and brilliant public speaker.

Continuous growth is what we are meant for, Mrs. Whitney told members of the club and guests at the meeting held at the Kurto country club at Harrisburg.

She pointed out that geriatrics, a science of the aging in the medical viewpoint, and gerontology, a science of aging through psychology, are becoming more important in research to help the older persons.

Older citizens are still a productive group and can add to any community, Mrs. Whitney stated. She pointed out that the communities which do not properly care for their aging citizens are the losers, as places in Florida and other communities who encourage retired persons to live in their localities gain in increased resources.

Must Provide Love, Friendship
Older citizens who move to places like Florida, she said, usually sell their homes and remove all their resources to their new localities where they usually buy homes and the communities there gain in new taxes and new income from new citizens.

Most old persons want to stay in their home communities, she said, but those communities must provide love and friendship for them.

Older persons need housing where they will have the companionship of friends and others of their own ages; they need recreation in places especially provided to keep older men off the streets; they need counseling services for their problems; they need adult education with older teachers and

Mamie Remains At Ike's Side In Third Ordeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, a proven soldier in her own right, stayed near the President's side today through the third such personal ordeal she has undergone in two years.

With her telephone turned off and the White House staff intruding as little as possible, the 61-year-old First Lady maintained her wife's post in the subdued second floor suite where the President sought recovery from a "cerebral occlusion."

Just as in 1955 when he suffered a heart attack and again in 1956 when he underwent an intestinal operation, she was close to his bedside most of the day and night.

One variation this time was the fact that, knowing the President's condition, she managed to hostess a state dinner for the King of Morocco Monday night with few of the guests able to detect she knew the President suffered more than the announced "chill."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who sat next to the First Lady at the state dinner, said he detected a "strain." But he described her performance as one of the most "courageous" he had ever seen.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

That would banish jealousies and envy, and we would rejoice in the well being of every one.

Courage and Faith

Editorial—BY JAMES CROSSLEY
Though ominous clouds hover, there is still much to be thankful for this Thanksgiving.

Life, for an individual and for a nation, is never without its threats. The times of peace and plenty are still fraught with a solid undercurrent of concern.

We must bow our heads this Thanksgiving and give thanks that there is yet a measure of peace even though our nation seems beset by jealous and irresponsible rivals.

Many men are still free in this world of ours and those who love liberty were never banded more closely together to defend it if necessary. Among the nations of the world we have powerful and resolute friends.

Never in history has there been a world leader such as our nation, so rich and generous, with principles which extended down to the bedrock of Christianity and the orderly process of law.

Though we feel buffeted and endangered; we must never lose sight of our own stature in the eyes of history. This, too, should be a part of our prayer for thanks.

The Pilgrims had every reason to despair in the months which preceded the first Thanksgiving. In a strange and frightening land, the little band was in no condition to defend itself successfully against the savages of the forests whom they greatly feared.

Of the 104 passengers who arrived on the Mayflower, there were only 50 remaining. Of these, at the point of lowest ebb, there were only six or seven in sound condition.

It was six months after they arrived that they came face to face with an Indian, though they had seen them lurking about in the forests.

Fittingly, it was just at a time that Capt. Miles Standish was presiding at a meeting about problems of defense, that the climax of the Indian threat came to a head.

An alarm was sounded. A lone Indian was strolling boldly down the main street of Plymouth.

The meeting broke up in confusion as the Indian confronted the settlers.

And to their amazement he spoke to them in English, saying, "Welcome."

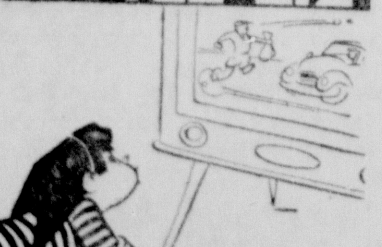

This is how they met Samoset who made them friendly with Massasoit. The encounter led to 50 years of peace with the surrounding tribes.

Alone, so far from home, the Pilgrims had only one course in those early months. They could only muster their own defenses, hold on to their courage and put their trust in Divine Providence. The lot of any body of men embarked on idealistic pursuits has always been the same.

America today should give thanks that so many tortuous, dangerous paths have been successfully traversed in the past and pray that we may have the stalwart fortitude for the years to come which the Pilgrims demonstrated.

Pilgrim's Progress

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Pentagon Top Brass Face Angry Questions From Congress; Production Of IRBM Was Curtailed; H-Bomb Scientist Is Opposed To Reaching The Moon.

WASHINGTON. — Congressmen Dan Flood of Pennsylvania and Robert Sikes of Florida, both Democrats, chewed out high Defense Department officials like Marine sergeants training recruits at Parris Island when they heard about some of the lags in the satellite-missile program.

The public was barred from the two-day, electric-charged sessions. However, here are some of the things the congressmen heard which made them indignant.

The United States was producing four Thor intermediate ballistic missiles per month, when Eisenhower economy cut it down to two.

When Pennsylvania's Dan Flood heard this he looked as if he were going to jump down Defense Secretary McElroy's throat. He looked even more explosive when he learned that Russia was already producing and had stockpiled several thousand IRBMs.

While it's true that Russia's intermediate missiles travel only 900 miles as against our range of 1500 miles, the Russian range is ample to knock out all our strategic air-command bases overseas. Furthermore, they have missiles, we don't.

By pointing 25 missiles at each U. S. base and firing them simultaneously, the Russians could knock our bases out in Turkey, Italy, Libya, and western Europe. At least one missile out of 25 would be sure to hit. And one missile is enough to blow a base into smithereens.

WTL ALLIES PANIC?
These SAC bases are for the purpose of carrying war to the heart of Russia. They are offensive bases, from which we would launch bomber attacks. These are the much-publicized attacks President Eisenhower has been talking about in his chin-up television broadcasts.

Yet, according to the information given secretly to the House Armed Services committee, these bases are now almost valueless—thanks to Russia's superior missile development and to our complacency.

"We are so far behind," exclaimed Congressman Sikes, "that it may cause some of our allies to panic."

Secretary of Defense McElroy nodded in agreement.

"I am seriously disturbed," continued Sikes. "You seem completely isolated from what your own people are doing and from what the American people are thinking. What steps are we taking to show our allies that we are catching up with Russia?"

TWO IKE DEFENDERS
Congressman Dick Wigglesworth, the sober Milton, Mass., Republican, disagreed, however. So did GOP Congressman Errett Scrivner, whose district embraces the stockyards of Kansas City, Kans.

They defended the administration, argued that the situation was not as dangerous as it seemed, that the Russian Sputnik had no defensive implications, and that the United States couldn't have got ahead any faster even had it spent extra money.

However, even they had a hard time defending the second amazing revelation, namely that the Defense Department had known five months in advance that Russia was going to launch its Sputnik yet didn't let the Army put its six satellite at Huntsville, Ala., into the air first.

Existence of these six satellites was reported in this column on Oct. 25. The congressmen, going to Huntsville after they finished quizzing defense officials in Washington, saw these satellites, declared they were no figment of a newsman's imagination. The Army has now been given the green light to launch them.

MEN AND THE MOON

Dr. Edward Teller, father of the H-Bomb, has recommended flatly against building a moon rocket as a "scientific stunt." Called in by the White House to review the rocket proposals, he decided none of them looked promising enough to justify the expense, suggested holding up construction of a moon rocket until more basic research problems are solved.

This appears to put Teller in about the same position as Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, who was denied a government security clearance because he hung back against producing the hydrogen bomb. Teller testified against Oppenheimer.

Meanwhile, the Russians have already built several rockets which they expect to shoot to the moon. This will give them another head start in the race into space.

Manwhile also, the State Department still hasn't given the chief Russian moon expert, Professor A. D. Alexandrov, final permission to come to the USA.

Professor Alexandrov is probably the top mathematical physicist in the world and has helped pioneer Russia's space projects. He has been extremely frank with American scientists, but though visiting in Canada in October, could not come to the USA because the State Department forgot about the request for his entry.

Ambassador William Lacey, in charge of Russian cultural exchanges, has just written Alvin Ehrlich of the Ford Foundation that "there would be no objection to inviting Professor Alexandrov, although no absolute guarantee that a visa will be issued can be given prior to his actual application."

Under the circumstances, Mr. Ehrlich doesn't want to risk the embarrassment of extending the invitation and then having Russia's top moon expert be vetoed by the State Department.

A message from Robert Keltner, "Your Pharmacist"
NOVEMBER IS TRADITIONALLY THE MONTH when all of us count our blessings and give thanks for them.

DO YOU REMEMBER how seriously sick patients would be? Day after day, sometimes for months, the doctor would have to call and, finally, the fortunate ones who survived would have to spend much sickness time recuperating. Medical, hospital and drug bills would cost hundreds of dollars.

NOW, MORE LIVES ARE BEING SAVED. A few visits from a physician and, within days instead of months, the patient is usually as good as new again.

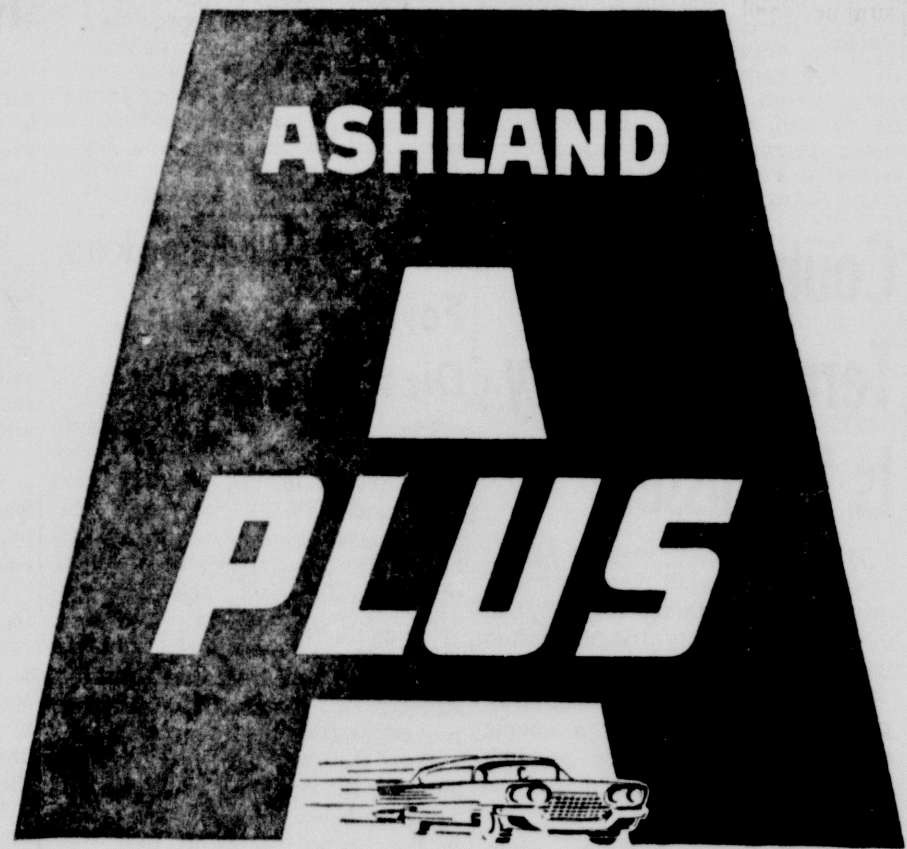

REMEMBER THOSE KIDNEY INFECTIONS that used to make permanent invalids out of so many people? Your physician now prescribes one of the new sulpha combinations that cost just a few dollars, and sometimes overnight a cure is accomplished.

WE ARE THANKFUL that we now have many important new medicines that can be depended upon to help you more than ever before. We are grateful that our profession of pharmacy permits us to work for your better health.

IMPROVEMENT of farm housing is the goal of Corinne Maloney, Ridgway, graduate student in home economics at the University of Illinois. (U. of I. Photo)

Miss Corinne Maloney Studies for Career in Planning Better Farm Homes

URBANA-CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Planning better farm homes is the unusual career on which Corinne Maloney, 24-year-old graduate student at University of Illinois, hopes to embark in June.

Miss Maloney is studying for a master's degree in the department of home economics under a $3,000 grant from General Foods Fund Corp., with a specialty in housing.

Her particular field is farm house planning and she's doing a research survey of new and remodelled homes on farms throughout the state of Illinois.

Corinne, a 5-foot 3-inch vivacious brunette, came to the University from Ridgway, Ill. She received a bachelor of science degree with scholastic honors in home economics education in 1955 and entered the teaching field for two years at Greenfield, Ill., high school.

But, the ambition to do something about farm homes brought her back for specialized work at the university. This interest came naturally because Corinne was born and raised on a farm in Gallatin county, one of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Maloney. Her father is both grain farmer and cattle feeder.

Two older sisters, Jean and Pat, and a brother, Richard, hold college degrees. Richard's having been in agriculture at Illinois in 1955. Another sister, Mary Beth, will be graduated from Fontbonne College next June, while two younger brothers, David and Frank, are of pre-college age.

"Farm people today are very much interested in improving their homes," Corinne observes, "and I feel there is a great potential for

Shrine Circus At Evansville Nov. 28 to Dec. 1

The acts booked for the Shrine Circus in Evansville November 28 through December 1 at Robert Municipal Stadium are the greatest in the 24 year history of this annual presentation.

The committee on acts has planned to make this Shrine Circus a well balanced show with features to please the youngest to the oldest circus fan.

Matt Dillon, star of the TV show, "Gunsmoke," will headline an array of circus talent in the feature presentation of the show.

The Wallendas, high wire artists, are the most spectacular act of its type in the circus and is making their first appearance on the annual Hadi Shrine Circus bill.

The Zoppe Zavatta Family is the oldest circus family from Europe to continually perform through the ages. They display a superb bare-back riding, comedy and artistic skill which will furnish plenty of spine-chilling thrills for the Shrine Circus patrons.

Matinees at 2:30 p. m. and evening performances at 7:30 p. m. are scheduled in the huge Municipal Stadium in Evansville Thanksgiving, Friday and Saturday. A matinee at 1:30 p. m. and an evening performance at 5 p. m. on Sunday, December 1, climax the show.

No Choice of Courses Russian Children Begin Mathematics, Science Studies in Early Years

BY LOUIS CASSELS
United States Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — Most American high school students take one year of mathematics.

This required course is usually taught in the ninth grade. It may be "general math," which is a review of grade school arithmetic with a little algebra and geometry thrown in, or it may be first-year algebra.

Many high schools require a second year of math for students preparing for college. This may be plane geometry in the 10th grade, which about 40 per cent of our students take; or intermediate algebra in the 11th grade, which 32 per cent take.

One American student out of seven goes on to study advanced mathematics—solid geometry and trigonometry—in the 12th grade. Two Systems Compared Russian students are introduced to algebra and geometry in the sixth grade. They get one course in each every year until they graduate from high school at the completion of the 10th grade. During their last two years, they also study trigonometry for two classroom hours a week.

American high schools generally require one year of "general science" for graduation. This usually is taught in the ninth grade and includes a smattering of all the natural sciences from astronomy to zoology.

Most of our high schools offer—and some require—one or more additional courses in laboratory science. The best schools offer biology in the 10th grade, chemistry in the 11th, physics in the 12th. A survey by the U. S. Office of Education last year showed that 75 per cent of America's 10th graders were taking biology; 35 per cent of the 11th graders were studying chemistry; and 24 per cent of the seniors were enrolled in physics.

Russian students begin their science studies in the fourth grade, with two hours of biology instruction a week. They continue to study biology through the ninth grade, a total of five years.

No Choice in Russia

Physics is added in the sixth grade and is studied for five years. The Soviet student takes four years of chemistry, starting in the seventh grade, and one year of astronomy, in the 10th grade.

Some U. S. high schools offer four years of foreign language instruction and require at least two years for a student taking a college preparatory course. But the majority do not require any foreign language study, and many do not even offer it.

Russian students get five years of foreign language instruction. About 40 per cent study English. Soviet children get separate courses in history and geography each year from the fourth grade on.

A Russian student has no choice whatever in the subjects he studies. The government lays down one hard-and-fast curriculum for all schools and all students. It is designed to serve the needs of the state—the production of large numbers of engineers and scientists, for example.

SII Asks Stratton To Call Special Legislative Session

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UP)—Southern Illinois Inc. has asked Gov. Stratton to call a special session of the Legislature to authorize engineering training at Southern Illinois University here.

A bill permitting SIU to train engineers was defeated in the last session of the General Assembly.

Directors of SII, a regional planning and development group, unanimously adopted the proposal Monday night. They said it was in line with President Eisenhower's recent plea for strengthening science education and basic research.

R. A. Bonfield, president of SII and head of Bonfield Truck Lines of West Frankfort, said in a letter to Stratton:

"We realize that a special session of the General Assembly is an extraordinary measure, but we feel that the shortage of engineers and scientists will not be corrected with ordinary programs.

"The area has suffered from lack of engineers and scientists in the past, just as the nation is suffering today."

Picking the Grid Winners

IN THE Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK — Fraley's Folies and the weekend football "winners"—with a football swan song which will last a whole month.
Game of the Week
 Navy over Army—This is always one of those unpredictable affairs where the team which is "up" the highest grabs the decision. Army has a tremendous running attack but a porous pass defense. Navy has a good line, better reserves and the passing to outscore the Cadets.
The South
 Mississippi over Mississippi State—Basin Street Blues.
 Auburn over Alabama — Stars fell on Alabama.
 Tennessee over Vanderbilt — Tennessee waltz.
 Georgia Tech over Georgia — Corn Pone Stomp.

Midwest Teams Dominate United Press All-American Grid Team

NEW YORK (UP)—The United Press today presents its 1957 All America football team, chosen by 275 football writers and broadcast from all sections of the country.
 They selected as the 11 finest college players in the land:
 Ends—Jimmy Phillips, Auburn, and Jim Gibbons, Iowa.
 Tackles—Alex Karras, Iowa, and Lou Miehaels, Kentucky.
 Guards—Bill Krisher, Oklahoma, and Al Ecuver, Notre Dame.
 Center — Don Stephenson, Georgia Tech.
 Backs—John Crow, Texas A and M; Walt Kowalczyk, Michigan State; Clendon Thomas, Oklahoma, and Bon Anderson, Army.
 Michaels is the only repeater from the 1956 United Press All America team. He was the only junior on that mythical eleven, all the rest being seniors.
 This year's all-star team is made up of nine seniors, a junior and a sophomore. Ecuver is the junior while Anderson, Army's brilliant back, became the first sophomore to make a United Press All-America team since J. C. Carline of Illinois in 1953.
 A lineman, Karras, the 233-pound Iowa tackle, led the vote getting with a total of 2,335 points. He was named on 225 of the 275 ballots, receiving 197 first team votes and 28 second team votes. Eleven points are awarded for a first team vote, six points for a second team vote.
 Next to Karras came Crow, the spearhead of Texas A and M's at tack, with 2,269 points.
 The closest race was for the center position, with Stephenson beating out Dan Currie of Michigan State by 42 points. Another tight contest was for the fourth backfield spot between Anderson and Don Clark of Ohio State's Big Ten champions.
 Clark, who had to sit out Ohio State's last two games because of injuries, led the balloting for the fourth backfield spot until the final day when Anderson finally forged in front. In the final count, Anderson beat out Clark by 92 points.
 Geographically, the Midwest, usually a powerhouse of the nation's football, dominated the 1957 team with four positions, followed by the South with three, the Mid-lands with two and the East and Southwest with one each. The best the far West could do was a second team berth for enfl Dick Wallen of UCLA.
 The line is a heavy one, averaging 211 pounds to a man. Michaels among the teams represented on the All-America, was unranked in this week's ratings.

 Named to the second team were Dave Kaiser, Michigan State, and Wallen at ends; Charles Krueger, Texas A&M, and Bob Reifsnnyder, Navy, at tackles; Thomas and Roy Hord, Duke, at guards; Currie at center and Clark, Tom Forrestal of Navy, Jim Pace of Michigan and Lee Grosscup of Utah in the backfield.
 The third team is composed of Buddy Dial, Rice, and Don Elingsen, Washington State, at ends; Jim McCusker, Pittsburgh, and Dick Klein, Iowa, at tackles; Bill Johnson, Tennessee, and Joe Palermo, Dartmouth, at guards; Charley Brueckman, Pittsburgh, at center; and Bob Stransky of Colorado, Nick Pietrosante of Notre Dame, King Hill of Rice and Bob Newman of Washington State in the backfield.
 Angler's tip: In spring and fall fish usually inhabit shallow water; in summer and winter, they tend to move into deeper water.

Hawks Defeat Knicks, 120-110
 By United Press
 The World's Champion Boston Celtics face the New York Knickerbockers tonight in the first of four games that may enable them to set one National Basketball Association record and equal another.
 The Celtics, riding the crest of a 13-game winning streak, need victories over New York tonight and Thursday to equal the league mark of 15 straight at the start of a season held by the 1948 Washington club. If successful, they'll then have a shot at the all-time mark of 17 straight wins during any portion of a season held by the 1946 Washington team.
 The Celtics appear to have little to fear from the Knickerbockers who Tuesday night dropped their ninth decision in 14 games when they bowed to the St. Louis Hawks, 120-110. The Detroit Pistons beat the Minneapolis Lakers, 109-91, in the other half of a doubleheader at Madison Square Garden.
 In addition to the New York Boston clash tonight's schedule has Philadelphia at Syracuse, Minneapolis vs. Cincinnati at Detroit and St. Louis at Detroit. The Thanksgiving Day program has Boston vs. New York at Philadelphia, Cincinnati at St. Louis, and Syracuse at Philadelphia.

Thanksgiving

In the day of the Sputnik and the Bomb, we are more than ever grateful for the things which have made our nation great... the love of family, friend, and country, and the indomitable spirit passed on to us by our Pilgrim forefathers. Let us all thank God for these blessings, and pray that they might continue to flourish in the face of extremity in all the years to come.

THE STORY: Private Investigator Jim Bennett receives orders from his agency to contact a prospective client named Hugo Howell. At an inn on Lake Erie where Jim receives the message, he has already had trouble with a quarrelsome man named Hugo.

I became suddenly aware that the people in the place had stopped talking, and that the room was very quiet.

I said to the fat man, "Are you Hugo Howell?"

He nodded, watching me. "That's me. What of it?"

"I'd like to talk to you—privately."

Behind him the pale man, still sitting on the stool, gazed at his fingernails and murmured, "Go ahead, Hugo. You can handle him."

"I'll settle it here," Howell blurted. He flung himself toward me, and his right fist started upward from his hip.

I jumped for him, got one thick hairy wrist in my fingers, twisted his arm behind him and held him against the bar. "Stop it," I said in a low voice. "Sober up. I want to talk to you."

Instead, he crouched down low, showing yellow teeth. And then he twisted free and came for me. I had no choice. As he came at me, I hit him on the jaw with my right fist, putting some shoulder weight behind it. My knuckles stung, and the blow staggered him. He rocked back on his heels, stumbled against a bar stool and leaned over it, his eyes squeezed shut. I felt a little sorry for him; I'm almost 40 years old, but he was at least 20 years my senior, and overweight at that. I wasn't proud of myself.

Otto cleared the end of the bar and long strides took him to Howell. He leaned down, grasped him under the arms and pulled him to his feet. Howell stood groggily, his eyes blurred and bewildered.

A little man in a white suit danced around and cried over and over in a shrill voice, "Here, here, we can't have this sort of thing!" Otto led Howell toward the rear stairs leading up from the bar to the upper floor of the hotel. The pale man followed them. He did not look back to where I stood by the bar rubbing my knuckles.

The man in the white suit, the hotel manager, I learned later, lifted his arms and said soothingly, "It's all right, folks. Please sit down."

I decided I'd better get out of there, but a big young policeman in a blue shirt and a Sam Browne belt came in from the street entrance and slapped a heavy palm on my chest. "Stick around, Mac," he grunted. I stopped and stuck around.

The pale man turned, saw the policeman and came back down the stairs and over to us and pointed a fat white finger at me. "Arrest him, officer. He started it. I saw it all."

The young policeman grunted again, slapped at my clothes, flipped back my coat and lifted my snub-nosed .38 Special from the inside pocket. "Hm," he said, hefting the gun and eyeing me narrowly. Then he released the cylinder with a broad thumb, squinted at the five bright cartridges, clicked the cylinder shut, said, "Huh-huh," and stuck the gun into a hip pocket.

I said, "Listen, officer—" "Shut up," he snapped, and his gaze went to the stair where Otto and the man named Howell had stopped to watch what was going on down in the bar. Howell shook his arm loose from Otto's grasp, came slowly and weaved up to us.

Otto was right behind him, his eyes bright and alert. Howell pointed a wavering finger at me. "He called me a name," he said thickly. "I was just minding my own business and he called me a nasty name."

The policeman looked at the bartender. "How about it, Otto?"

Otto nodded at me and said quietly, "It was not his fault, Gus. Mr. Howell started it." He gazed at the fat man.

"Thanks, Otto," I murmured, uncomfortably aware that everyone in the place was watching us silently and curiously.

The young cop said sternly, "Maybe so, Otto, but this man was carrying a gun. I'll have to take him in."

"Look—" I began. "Tell it to the chief," he said gruffly. He grasped my arm and started to lead me toward the street entrance. I shot Otto an imploring glance.

Otto said quickly, "You're making a mistake, Gus."

"Maybe," Gus said grimly. "I've made 'em before."

I held back and said, "Okay, take me in, but they go along, too." I nodded at Howell and his pale companion.

A soft voice behind me said, "Gus, this man acted in self-defense. I saw the whole thing."

I planted my feet stubbornly and looked around. The girl standing there was so sun-tanned that at first glance I couldn't tell if she was pretty or not, but she had nice regular features and a figure that would make any man look at least twice. She was tall, with long legs and a slim waist, subtly flaring hips and firm rounded shoulders. She wore a clinging white linen dress, sleeveless and almost topless, except for narrow straps over her shoulders—you would call it a sun dress, I suppose. Her hair was brown, with bronze highlights, and was combed severely back from the small flat ears in a pony tail tied with a red ribbon.

The young policeman grinned at her. "Hello, Honey. Your word is good with me—we'll take 'em all to the station. But you come along, too."

The girl laughed. "All right, Gus. That's what I get for butting in."

"Thanks, Miss," I said to her, and turned to Gus. "Think you can handle us all?"

"Sure, Mac. Stay here." He moved to a phone on the end of the bar.

We hit the sidewalk just as a battered black cruiser bearing POLICE on its side in huge black letters rolled up to the curb. A young cop was behind the wheel. Gus opened the front door and the girl got in beside the driver. I climbed in beside her. For a second, from the expression on Gus' face, I was afraid I wouldn't get away with it. But he decided to let it ride, opened the rear door, motioned to the two men to get in and got in beside them. We started off.

I said to the girl beside me, "Does everyone call you Honey?"

She gave me a quick smile. "Yes—you see, that's my name."

Behind us Hugo Howell let out an imitation wolf howl.

"Shut up, you," I heard Gus say sternly. Howell guffawed.

Gus herded us into a long room with brown linoleum on the floor. There were wooden benches along the walls, a bare table in the center surrounded by wooden chairs. On a raised platform at the far end was a desk. On the wall behind the desk hung an American flag and beside the flag was a door. A spare man wearing a dark blue suit, white shirt and black tie sat at the desk. He had white hair, neatly trimmed and combed, a smooth, lean, tanned face and a thin blade of a nose.

When he saw the girl, the corners of his thin mouth twitched upward for an instant. Then the grim mask fell again and his cold gaze swung to Gus. "What do we have here?"

Gus said, "Chief, the charge is disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace, in the Harbor House bar." He nodded at me and Howell. "They were fighting."

The chief's gaze swung to Howell. "What's your name?" he snapped.

"Hugo H. Howell, and I'll have your lousy job for this."

"Shut up," the chief said, and nodded at Gus. "Tell me about it."

Gus began to tell him and the chief listened gravely. Hugo Howell muttered under his breath and swayed against the pale man, who supported him as best he could.

I heard Gus say, "... and he had a gun, Chief." I saw that he'd placed my gun on the desk.

"Very well," the chief said quietly. "Lock up Mr. Howell." His thin lips twisted wryly. "Let's call it protective custody. He's in no shape to be on the streets tonight."

The pale man started to protest, but the chief waved a weary hand, and the pale man shut up. Gus took Howell by one arm and led him from the room. A door slammed, and then there was silence. The chief looked at me, a faint smile cracking his stern features. "Mr. Bennett, will you come with me for a moment?" He stepped back from his desk and opened the door there.

The girl and the pale man watched me curiously as I stepped up to the platform and followed the chief through the door into a small office. He closed the door, turned and held out a hand. "How are you, Bennett? How's your boss?"

I shook his dry, bony hand and How's Doc an' that private eye he took with him? Finger t'get back here with the time machine fixed so's we can't find out where they went?

Simple. I'm to reverse the process after they've been gone exactly one hundred hours.

Oh then we still got somewhat of a wait ahead of us, haven't we?

Yes. Oop, I'm afraid we have.

Remarkable, isn't it? How one man with a gun can take over a whole people?

Disgusting!

Perhaps, but a man of your imagination could get a lot out of this.

Bah! It was old stuff before the dawn of history!

Okay, Doc, suit yourself, but me, I'm going to have a time!

Time!

Woman Called Safer Pedestrian

NORFOLK, Va. — Safety consultant George H. Elliott says women pedestrians are more safety-conscious than men.

"Women walk to the corner and wait for the proper light," said Elliott, who is with the Tidewater Automobile Assn. He cited figures to show that three out of four persons killed as pedestrians last year were males.

Elliott conceded that men do more walking and wear darker clothing which makes it more difficult for them to be seen by motorists. And he said seven out of 10 pedestrians who were killed last year had been drinking.

"Obviously most of the people walking home at night from public drinking places are males," Elliott said.

THE BIG M FOR '58...FIRST WITH SPORTS-CAR CONTROL AND THE SOLID, LUXURIOUS RIDE OF A LIMOUSINE

AND FEATURING EVERYTHING NEW FROM SELF-ADJUSTING BRAKES TO A NEW HILL CONTROL

Awaiting you at your Mercury dealer's is a car that, in many ways, makes driving a new experience. Here are four examples:

Big new brakes that adjust themselves automatically!

Mercury's new brakes are self-adjusting for the life of the brake lining. They automatically adjust for lining wear during the course of your daily driving—save time and cost of frequent brake adjustments.

A chime that warns you when you exceed the speed limit.

Mercury offers a Speed-limit Safety Monitor which can be set at any desired speed. A warning chime sounds when this speed is reached—saves having to watch the speedometer.

A power feature that automatically lubricates your car every time you start it.

Mercury offers you power lubrication. It works automatically whenever you start the engine, or push a button on the dash. And each lubrication costs less than one-half cent—cuts down on trips to the service station.

A separate push-button that gives you engine braking on down-hill grades.

All Mercurys equipped with Merc-O-Matic

Keyboard Control have a new Hill Control. Just push a button for the extra safety of engine braking. (Your brakes last longer, too.)

Equally important are Mercury's new road-hugging size and weight—and revolutionary Cool-Power Marauder engines. Teamed with Mercury's wonderful new driving aids, they result in a car that can't be matched anywhere for control, handling ease, performance and comfort.

We invite you to try Mercury's new sports-car spirit with limousine ride. Just stop in at our showroom. See how much more your money buys in a Mercury.

Sir Winston Churchill, Last of War II Leaders, 83 On Saturday

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill celebrates his 83rd birthday Saturday — a very old man working against the inexorable march of time.

The last survivor of the great Allied leaders of World War II, Churchill is hurrying to complete his monumental "History of the English Speaking Peoples," begun in 1930.

The third volume was published this year. A fourth and — as far as is known — final volume is scheduled for publication in 1958.

Time Uncertain Factor

But time is the great uncertain factor.

Friends say Churchill's towering mental powers and mastery of the English language remain as supreme as ever.

But physically he has declined noticeably in recent months.

His once rotund figure is sunken and bent, his step is that of a very tired man and he walks painfully with the aid of a stick or supported on Lady Churchill's arm.

At the urging of his wife and doctors he is doing everything to husband the remnants of his strength.

Much of this year Churchill has spent on the French Riviera to escape the raw dampness of England which has plagued him with chills and bronchial trouble. He spent two months at Roquebrune last January and another three weeks there in May. In September he spent several more weeks at the Cap D'Ail home of his old friend Lord Beaverbrook. He expects to leave for the French Riviera again soon.

Churchill Writes, Paints

During his visits there he divides his time between painting and working on the "History of the English Speaking Peoples."

His visits to London are rare.

Predict UN to Keep Hands Off Algerian Crisis

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations will keep hands off the Algerian situation and give France another year to work out its troubles with the strife-torn North African territory, U. N. observers predicted today.

The General Assembly's Main Political Committee was opening its perennial debate on the explosive question this afternoon with French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau the first speaker.

The French counted heavily on support from Britain and the United States for its demand for a free hand to solve the Algerian problem and it appeared they would get it.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said at the end of 13 hours of talks with French Premier Felix Gaillard Tuesday that "responsibility for a solution of the Algerian question lies with France."

Pineau has conducted a number of talks in Washington with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and other officials drumming up similar support.

The atmosphere here lacked the tension surrounding Algerian debates of past years.

Both the Arab bloc, which has demanded independence for Algeria, and the French appeared disposed to accept a moderately worded resolution.

When in England he generally stays at Chartwell, his beautiful country home about 30 miles south east of London.

The old warrior, who retired from the premiership under the weight of his years on April 5, 1955, still holds his parliamentary seat for Woodford. It is a "safe," solidly Conservative constituency, and he has announced he will retain it for the rest of his days.

But his visits to the House of Commons are rare and he no longer speaks in debates. Growing deafness and the tax on his strength rule that out.

In fact, Churchill's public appearances have become rarer and rarer of late.

convenient locations; they need hospital care and they should be recognized by their churches because as pioneers they helped build the communities in which they live, Mrs. Whitney stated.

Advice to Older Persons

Mrs. Whitney listed special advice to older persons by geriatricians. It included: 1. Have regular check up each year after 40 and twice yearly after 60; 2. Keep active and walking is the best exercise anyone can have; 3. Breathe deeply; 4. Stand tall and sit tall; 5. Watch overweight; 6. Don't hurry or push yourself, and 7. Take nap every day.

Many illnesses are caused by emotional stress, Mrs. Whitney stated, and added that a zest for life can continue after 40 with the proper education.

Your interests in life and your adjustments to life will bring a happier old age, Mrs. Whitney said. Adjustments to life include:

1. How did you take it when your children got married? Did you let them go free?
2. Retirement — how did you take it or have you made plans for it?
3. Can you live on smaller income and live happily?
4. Loss of a mate, can you take it?
5. How can you take difficulties or illnesses?

Our growth, she said, should include physical growth, psychological growth, interest in life, adjustments to life, mental growth, and finally spiritual growth.

Membership Drive Stressed

The club president, Attorney Don Scott of Harrisburg, was in charge of the meeting and the speaker was introduced by Mrs. D. A. Lehman. Invocation was given by the Rev. W. E. Hanagan of Eldorado and guests were given special recognition by President Scott.

He also thanked officers and members of the board of directors who have served with him during the past year and introduced Dr. William Johnson of Eldorado, who will be the new president. Fred Wunderlich will be the new vice president and Mrs. Zola Sloan will be the secretary, a post which has been filled during the past year by Dr. H. J. Raley.

Dr. Johnson stressed a need for high membership and stated Perry Moore of Harrisburg would be general chairman of the membership committee, a post which he also held during the past year. Dr. Johnson urged early renewals of memberships and stated chairmen have been named for area communities of Rosiclare, Omaha, Shawneetown, Norris City, Eldorado, Ridgway and Equality. Others also will be named to seek memberships in all the neighboring towns.

$25,000 Suit Charges Negligence In Fatal Shooting

VANDALIA, Mo. (AP) — A suit charging negligence has been filed by John C. Askew asking $25,000 damages from Eugene Aylor, New Hartford, Mo. in the fatal shooting of Askew's son, Jimmy Wayne, 19.

The youth was shot accidentally by Miss Judy Johnson, Vandalia, with a pistol which both thought to be a toy. The couple were in Aylor's car at a drive-in theater at Summer Hill, Ill. They found the gun in the glove compartment.

The suit charges Aylor with negligence in not informing the occupants of the car that there was a loaded pistol in the glove compartment.

Expect to Fire Atlas Saturday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Informers, sources said today that the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile would be fired Saturday if scheduled ground tests today are successful.

The Air Force, however, refused to confirm or deny the reports. The big projectile has fizzled in its only two previous tests, leaving the U. S. still without a missile to match Russia's continent-spanning ICBM.

In today's expected "static test" the huge, 90-foot rocket would be bolted to its launching pad and its powerful engines revved up.

Meanwhile, a House Appropriations subcommittee investigating the missile program termed Tuesday night's unsuccessful launching of the Army Jupiter rocket as "spectacular, but disappointing."

The committee left this morning after a two-day inspection of the big missile-launching site here.

To observers watching from nearby beaches, the 3,000-mile range Jupiter appeared to take off without a hitch.

Settle Lawsuits For $30,000

MARION, Ill. (AP) — Lawsuits totaling a quarter of a million dollars growing out of the Herrin propane gas explosion, Oct. 18, 1956, have been settled out of court for a total of $30,000.

The settlements in the explosion that took 10 lives were listed in Williamson County Court probate records.

Eight deaths and one injury were involved in the suits. Death settlements ranged from $1,000 to $3,500. The largest settlement of $12,000 involved an injury to 7-month-old baby Randy Williams, whose parents were killed by the blast.

The defendants in the suits were the driver of the propane gas truck which leaked gas into the residential area, an oil company and the owner of a propane gas company.

Garry Moore to Break Up Morning Show At End of Season

NEW YORK (AP)—Garry Moore will break up his TV family and daily CBS-TV morning show at the end of this season, the network announced today.

CBS-TV said the Moore show, now in its seventh year, would not return to TV next fall. The crew cut comic from Baltimore, will continue to emcee his regular Wednesday night entry on CBS-TV.

Sources close to the network indicated that Dick Van Dyke, a young comic in the CBS-TV stable, would get first crack at Moore's TV spot next season. Van Dyke will take over the Moore show for a two-week test run in January.

Stocks Rebound Sharply from Losses After President's Illness

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rebounded sharply today from the drubbing it took Tuesday on the delayed announcement of the President's illness.

The optimistic tenor of the latest medical bulletins and a number of "good bargains" attracted buying. Individual gains around noon ran to $7 in Gulf Oil and to $6 or more in Amerada and International Business Machines.

There were numerous gains of $2, $3, $4 and $5 in the main list. All groups took part in the rally, with oils and aircrafts among the leaders.

Reports Sway Prices

The advance restored more than four billion dollars to market values. Tuesday's sharp decline wiped almost five billion dollars from values.

Tuesday, the tape was so late at the close that it took 25 minutes before the last quotation was printed. Pacific Coast stocks fell behind, too, and closed lower after trading in New York ended.

It was believed that the President's health reports would continue to sway prices as they have since Sept. 26, 1955, the day of the big break on Ike's heart attack. That break knocked industrials down 31.89 points, a drop only second in scope to the one of Oct. 28, 1929, when the average fell 38.93 points.

The market set its lows on Oct. 22 and then met support to such extent that market men said a year-end rally looked as if it were in the cards, thanks to somewhat easier money.

20 Minute Decline

Then came news of the President's illness and the market had one of its biggest declines in a period of 20 minutes in history. The last half hour sales of 1,100,000 shares were the fourth largest since the market started running

Hardin Telephone Company Asks Increase in Rates

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois Commerce Commission today reported the Hardin Telephone Co., and Marion Telephone Co., both have filed petitions requesting authority for rate increases.

The Hardin company, with headquarters at Rosiclare, requested approval of a $4,500 annual increase for its 750 subscribers at Cave-in-Rock, Elizabethtown, Herod, Karbers Ridge, and Rosiclare.

The Marion Telephone Co. serves Boulder, Fairman and Sandoval, with headquarters at Sandoval. It requested a $7,000 annual increase for its 400 subscribers.

to 3:30 p. m. on Sept. 29, 1952.

Market men said that if the bulletins on the President's illness improve the market could resume its rise and still score the traditional year-end rally. Some brokers believed the list could recover regardless of the bulletins since, they held, the market had been oversold and was entitled to a rally.

Bull Dogs to Play Carterville Here Friday, Eldorado Saturday

Coach Dotson to Open Season with 11-Man Squad

Coach John Dotson, with an 11 man squad consisting of three seniors, seven juniors and one sophomore, will start the 1957-58 Bull Dog basketball season Friday night by entertaining Carterville in Dav- enport gym.

Then on Saturday night the Bull Dogs will be host to the Eldorado Eagles, who already have two games under their belts.

So local fans will be able to see a weekend of Bull Dog basketball without having to leave town.

Boys on Squad

Coach Dotson said that his varsity squad will be composed of the following boys:

Seniors: Ray Hassett, Kinch Jones and Bill Yates.

Mr. Dotson also stated that for the first two games, which are non-conference affairs, he will suit three freshmen — Dale Roberson, Jim Lamb and J. B. Henshaw — with the varsity. They also will play with the Bull Pup aggregation in the preliminary contests Friday and Saturday night and probably will play only with the Pups in South Seven competition.

Mr. Dotson said he had not yet arrived on a starting combination for Friday night.

Several Rules Changes

Chester Caddas, Bull Pup coach, announced boys he would suit for the Friday night game. Definitely, he said, Roberson, Lamb and Henshaw, all freshmen, and Sophomores Gary Aldridge, Jerry Kane, Charles Banks, Larry Wise, John Donovan (if a knee heals), John Cotton and Steve Frantz will be suited. Other possibilities are Dennis Goolsby, Kenneth Smith, Larry Baldwin and John Pickford, all sophomores.

There have been several rules changes this year and the ones with which spectators will be concerned chiefly are these:

The free throw lane has been widened to twelve feet.

There will be no bonus free throw until the fouling team has committed four personal fouls in each half.

There will be no free throws, but a jump ball, on a double foul.

There cannot be any delaying tactics by either team.

University Invention

The betatron, which produces X-rays or an electron beam with millions of volts energy, was invented at the University of Illinois in 1940.

MOST VALUABLE—Generally regarded as Southern Illinois University's most versatile athlete, Marion Rushing, senior end and captain from Pinckneyville, has been voted by his teammates as SIU's most valuable grid player of 1957. Rushing, who this week exchanged his football uniform for basketball equipment, may become one of Southern's few athletes to earn a total of 12 letters in football, basketball, and track. In between his athletic activity and his college studies, he likes to hunt and fish. (SIU Photo)

Wildcats Beat Vienna, 79-48, For Third Win

The Carrier Mills Wildcats, at full strength for the first time this season, raced past Vienna Tuesday night 79-48. This was the third victory in as many starts for the 'Cats.

Vern Rolli s, veteran pivot man, was in the Carrier Mills lineup for the first time this season and not only added much fire power, but played a terrific defensive game.

Rolli tied with teammate Bill Smith for 'Cat scoring honors, each making 21. Two others, Keene and Manier, were in double figures.

Don Brady was just about the whole noise for Vienna, scoring 32 of his team's 70 points. Brady was particularly effective at the free throw line, hitting 16 of 19 and closed out the game by scoring 13 consecutive free tosses.

Carrier Mills led all the way, and really broke the game open in the second frame, outscoring Vienna 20-7 in this frame. The 'Cat defense was near perfect, holding the opposition scoreless from the field in the entire second period.

Vienna won the preliminary game 49-34.

Carrier Mills will be out of action until Friday, Dec. 6, when they will play at Galatia.

Rosiclare Wins Third, Ridgway Fifth Straight

The Rosiclare Bears climbed into a tie with Ridgway for the Greater Egyptian conference leadership Tuesday night by taking their third victory of the season in GEC play.

In the only loop tilt played Rosiclare won over Cave-in-Rock 70-62. The game, witnessed by a large crowd at Rosiclare, was a thriller all the way.

Donnie Seay, veteran Rosiclare guard, paced his team to victory with 21 points, but received lots of assistance from Brown, Croft and Edwards, all in double figures.

Bill Shore was tops for the Rockers with 18 points. Ridgway, unbeaten this season, went outside the conference for its fifth victim, doubling the score on Crossville, 76-38.

Roger Suttner, 6-10 1-2 center, again paced the Ridgway scoring, hitting the nets for 31 points, including 11 field goals. Ernie Clifford and Gene Crawford tied for runnerup scoring honors with 15 each.

Three teams are unbeaten in GEC play at present—Ridgway and Rosiclare at the top with a 3-0 record and Galatia is 2-0. But the jam will be broken soon.

Rosiclare plays at Ridgway Dec. 6 and entertains Galatia Dec. 13. And Ridgway will be at Galatia on Dec. 10.
